The Pimpri Chinchwad Education Trust (PCET) comprises a group of highly active and devoted individuals of high social standing. They came together with the mission to establish, develop, and manage large technical and allied educational institutions offering a variety of valuable educational courses. This suburb, being the largest industrial area in Asia, required a significant pool of technically skilled manpower.

To meet the dual objectives of serving public and industrial needs, the trust invited esteemed citizens from the region to join this local and national endeavour. As a result, the Pimpri Chinchwad Education Trust was established. In line with its mission, the trust introduced diploma courses in engineering by founding the Pimpri Chinchwad Polytechnic College in Pune in 1990.
